Chatelaine's "Dr. G". revealed

Article raises fears of abortions at London Catholic hospital

The Interim newspaper's October front page story lists many details indicating that the "Dr. G" in Chatelaine's September feature article lionizing a late-term abortionist is almost certainly Dr. Fraser Fellows of London, Ontario.

Dr. G reveals in the Chatelaine article that he is on staff at a Catholic hospital and that he clandestinely starts late-term abortions and completes earlier stage ones at that hospital. He also states that other hospital staff counsel and refer women for abortions.

The Interim reports that in the Chatelaine article, Dr. G. had "a half-dozen protesters chanting outside his house every day for several years". Jim Hughes, national president of Campaign Life Coalition, states that Dr. Fraser Fellows of London, Ontario is "the only Canadian abortionist to have been picketed at home for more than a week". Dr. Fellows is on staff at London's St. Joseph's Catholic hospital.

Pro-lifers have previously complained to the hospital and the London diocese about abortionist Fellows' presence on the hospital's staff. The new revelations in Chatelaine, if true, as they appear to be, are in serious violation of hospital policy and Catholic church teaching, and may lead to major scandal.

Campaign Life Coalition calls on both St. Joseph's hospital and the diocese of London to conduct a serious investigation of these matters and to immediately remove abortionist Fellows from the hospital staff.

If Fellows has been committing or starting abortions in the hospital it would seem that other staff members are co-operating with the procedure or turning a blind eye to it. Such co-operators should also be removed from the hospital because of their serious betrayal of the hospital's philosophy and purpose.

The Interim, produced in Toronto, is Canada's national pro-life, pro-family newspaper and is.
