

Canada protects trees. Now protect preborn children

Petition to The Right Honourable Prime Minister of Canada

A Quebec town recently recognized trees as living beings with a “right to life.”

Trees deserve care, but children in the womb deserve protection.

In Canada, preborn children have no legal protection, even though they are living human beings with unique DNA, growing bodies, and a future ahead of them.

If Canada can recognize the value of trees, it can recognize the humanity of preborn children.

I call upon Parliament to introduce legal protections for preborn children.

Sincerely,
